The Northamptonshire Classical Guitar & Lute Society

The Northamptonshire Classical Guitar and Lute Society is a not-for-profit organisation for amateur, student and professional classical guitarists, lutenists and musicians of similar historical, acoustic stringed instruments as well as for the non-performing enthusiast.

The society meets on the second Sunday of each month* between 2pm - 4pm at the historic All Saints' Church located on George's Row in the heart of Northampton's town centre. The society offers its members an opportunity to interact both musically and socially in a friendly non-competitive environment.

New members are always welcome.

* Unless a national holiday or a conflict in respect of the venue occurs in which case an alternative time or date will be arranged where possible. Such instances will be advertised on our website at www.ncgls.org.uk.

'Nothing is more beautiful than a guitar, save perhaps two'
- Chopin

The society's aims are:

- ⊗ to provide opportunities for the amateur, student and professional classical guitarist and lutenist, as well as for the classical guitar and lute enthusiast, to interact both socially and musically in a non-competitive environment,
- ⊗ to further an interest in the classical guitar, lute and related plucked instruments in the local community,
- ⊗ to provide concert opportunities for students and professionals based in Northamptonshire.

The society's ambitions are to offer its members:

- ⊗ monthly meetings at the historic All Saints' Church in Northampton including an 'open podium' for those members who wish to perform,
- ⊗ 'Sul Tasto', the society's newsletter,
- ⊗ an annual concert series including a solo recital, ensemble performance and student concert,
- ⊗ lectures, workshops and masterclasses,
- ⊗ displays by locally based luthiers and other events that may be of interest to its members.
